

STATEHOOD BY NEW BILL.

Citizens of Arizona and New Mexico Get Pointers.

Must Vote First on the Recall and Amendment.

Congress Not Disposed to Legislate for Them.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) A bill for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as States was introduced today by Congressman Flood of the Committee on Territories.

As expected, the new bill provides that New Mexico shall be admitted immediately on condition that the people vote on an amendment to their constitution making that instrument easier of amendment in the future. Arizona likewise is to be admitted once the people vote on a proposition to strike out of the constitution the recall of judges.

A report accompanying the bill declares that under the New Mexican constitution as it now exists it will be almost impossible to amend the instrument for twenty-five years. The proposal to strike out the recall of judges in both instances, however, the voters of the Territories are given the privilege of finally deciding the questions for themselves.

The bill will be called up Tuesday and Wednesday will be allowed for debate. The new bill was framed to meet the views of those members of Congress who were willing to admit the Territories as States, but who were averse to affirmatively approving their constitutions as adopted.

The difficulty of amendment is held to be the chief evil of the New Mexican constitution concerning which the report says: "Certain other provisions of the constitution as framed and adopted are very objectionable, and will, in their operation, be very oppressive to the people of the Territory. It is claimed that they were brought about at the instigation, and in the interest of certain large corporations and special interests, who, it is claimed, exerted large influence in the framing of the proposed constitution. The committee, however, has not thought it to undertake to correct such questionable features, but has endeavored to feel that it was in the province of Congress to make a constitution for the proposed State."

INSURGENTS PICK HENRY.

They Spread the Rumor in Washington That He Will Do, to Succeed United States Senator Perkins.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The insurgent group again spreading the rumor that Senator Perkins will be succeeded by Henry.

PERKINS' SEAT WILL SOON BE EMPTY.

This time they are not saying that he is on the verge of death, but they announce that his health has been very bad for a year and that he will resign within a year and that Gov. Johnson will artificially drop his name over the bent shoulders of Francis J. Heney. It doesn't make any difference that Senator Perkins has no thought of resigning, that he has been well enough to answer every roll call and has never missed but five sessions in seventeen years. He may have been a little piqued over the reports that his health was bad, for he visited Barker, Clark's successor at Johns Hopkins, and was told that he was merely suffering from a nervous breakdown, and would be all right if he would take a rest.

The Senator, however, has his own ideas about that. He will not take a rest so long as Congress is in session, and he seems to be holding his own well enough to make any one looking for his seat very anxious.

STOPS TO STOP FIGHTS OF UNION MEN.

CHICAGO, May 12.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Dr. J. H. Hertsche, president of the United Association of Plumbers, into a conference, but without result. At night, many of them were eager to precipitate war at once.

One more chance is to be given the plumbers and steam fitters to settle their differences. A conference has been called for Tuesday in the offices of D. H. Burnham & Co. If a settlement is not reached at that time, the contractors will continue their responsibility for the present troubles. Some of the contractors have been advocating a lockout for the last two or three weeks. Others declare the lockout is in the building district. It was said that one of the large building in the downtown district, lock out all union men, procure an injunction from the courts and erect the building with non-union labor. It was held by the advocates of the plan that when the unions saw a big building going up by non-union labor they would stop their fighting among themselves and get together in self-protection.

"We are not going to give out our plans in advance," said one contractor tonight, "but they are all mapped out and we will see to it that this thing is carried out. The situation has become intolerable and the contractors are united in their determination to do something before the end of next week."

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) KOKOMO (Ind.) May 12.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Mrs. Olive Apperson, prominent in social circles, today brought suit for divorce against Elmer Apperson, leading stockholder in the Apperson Automobile Company, asking judgment in the sum of $200,000, and allowing for $5000 to meet immediate needs and $5000 for attorney fees.

Mrs. Apperson charges that her husband had taken frequent trips to California and Florida and that he refused to permit her to accompany him. It is alleged that it has been the practice of Apperson to spend practically every dollar of his income in these states. It is alleged that in making his refusal for his wife to go with him Apperson explained that she could take her automobile and have a good time.

He declared to Minister Adams that protection of British interests alone led Great Britain to recognize the Confederates as belligerents.

(Copyright, 1911, by the)

FIFTY YEARS ago today Great Britain declared her neutrality in the hostilities that "have unhappily commenced between the government of the United States of America and certain States styling themselves the Confederate States of America."

The proclamation of Queen Victoria declaring the neutral character assumed by her government also recognized the Confederate States as a belligerent power, an act that caused alarm and chagrin to the people of the Northern States.

It happened that the queen's proclamation of neutrality was issued on the day that Charles Francis Adams, the newly-appointed Minister of the United States to Great Britain, arrived in England.

A diplomat could not well have been met on landing by more unenviable intelligence. The step that his government most wished to prevent had been taken before he could protest against it. With the Confederates recognized as belligerents it seemed at the moment that their recognition by Great Britain as an independent nation might follow.

Mr. Adams hastened to London, where the news that had met him on landing at Liverpool was confirmed. Although he arrived late in the evening he had hardly reached his hotel when a visitor was announced. It was John Bates, head of the great banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., a native of Massachusetts, Mr. Bates was keenly interested in the fortunes of the North in the war.

Adams Self-Contained. The conversation between these two men may be imagined. Mr. Bates, while giving Mr. Adams a summary of the course of events in England in the two weeks the diplomat had been on the water, expressed great uneasiness over the situation.

Mr. Adams was not the man to be unbalanced by adversity. The son of John Quincy Adams, sixth President, and grandson of John Adams, second President—both of whom like him had occupied the post of Minister to St. James—he was experienced in the line of politics and diplomacy. Like his forebears, he was of firm mold, self-contained always, a clear thinker, going straight to the point of a situation. He was prepared to protest, firmly and calmly, against the proclamation, not with the hope of changing its terms, but for the purpose of preventing the recognition of the independence of the Confederate States.

Mr. Adams was conversant with the laws of nations and saw that he had no valid ground for objection to the proclamation itself, whatever the popular view of it might be at home. He therefore decided to base his protest on the haste with which the proclamation had been issued.

In this connection there had been an influence at work which might well have caused the new Minister irritation. Two agents of the Confederate States, W. L. Yancey of Alabama and P. A. Roost of Louisiana, had arrived in London ahead of Mr. Adams and had been received "unofficially" on May 2 by Lord John Russell, Foreign Secretary.

On May 5 the Foreign Secretary had announced in the House of Commons that belligerent rights would be conceded to the Confederacy.

This sequence of events might easily have upset a minister less excitable than Mr. Adams. The general attitude of Europe toward the contest in America also was disquieting.

The view of the leading statesmen of Europe at the time seemed to be that the dissolution of the American Union was inevitable.

In France the success of the Confederacy was hoped for by the high officials who favored Napoleon III's designs on Mexico.

There was an understanding, however, between the governments of Europe, the existence of which Mr. Adams soon learned, to leave to England the initiative in dealing with the American war situation. England's position was not held by the people of the Northern States to be friendly for these reasons: It was believed the English governing class had never forgiven America the revolutionary war; that any disruption of the republic would be agreeable to the aristocracy; that this class held the American spirit to be boastful and presumptuous and in need of chastisement; that the policy of a protective tariff was distasteful to England, while the low tariff policy of the Confederacy was favored; that the blockade of southern ports, declared by Lincoln, April 19, was objectionable because inimical to British trade; and finally that England must keep her mills running.

These ideas, whatever their value, were of a sort to excite popular prejudice and make more difficult the labor of the diplomat seeking to offset the advantage already obtained by the Confederacy through the British proclamation.

England's justification for the proclamation was as follows: A state of war existed in America, as evidenced by the attack on Fort Sumter and Lincoln's proclamation of a blockade of southern ports. It was in a moment of a maritime war. England was a maritime nation. Her ship owners and seamen were alarmed. It was necessary for England to protect herself by declaring her position as a neutral.

Yankees try to blockade us and keep you from our cotton, you'll send their ships to the bottom and acknowledge us. That will be before autumn, I think."

"It was in vain I assured him he would be disappointed."

"Look out there," he said, pointing to the wharf, on which were piled some cotton bales; "there's the key that will open all our ports, and put us into John Bull's strong box as well."

No one could foresee, fifty years ago today, that England at an early date would close her ports to Confederate privateers and their prizes, and be followed by other European nations in that course, thus dealing the Confederacy a hard blow; that the blockade, the North's greatest single weapon in the war, would become more and more effective.

Looking backward, it is easy to see that England could not long have delayed proclaiming her neutrality; and as events developed, her declaration proved not so damaging to the North, nor so helpful to the South, as it seemed to be at the time.

TO REMIT THE SUGAR TAX.

Lloyd George is Sympathetic. But He Does Hate to Let Loose of Fifteen Millions Yearly.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] LONDON, May 12.—Representatives of those who are urging on the government the remission of the sugar tax had an interview with David Lloyd George today, and asked him to abolish this provision for revenue from the forthcoming budget.

The Chancellor was sympathetic, saying he agreed that the sugar duty was oppressive to the poor, and interfered with a valuable industry. It was most desirable that it should be remitted if he could extract the same amount of tax from other sources.

However, as it was, he could not afford to surrender a tax that was bringing in $15,000,000.

"BLACK HAND" BLOWS UP HOUSE AFTER MANY REQUESTS FOR MONEY

Shoemaker Fails to Heed Demand for Large Sum and Bomb Is Exploded Late Last Night—The Deed Planned to Catch Him and His Three Sons, But Luckily None Was at Home.

THE vengeance of the Black Hand came again last night. The home of Ben Guidaro, No. 426 Avenue 20, is in ruins from a bomb. Luckily Guidaro and his sons had not returned home and thus escaped death.

Guidaro received three letters from the agents of the Black Hand residing in Spain, commanding him in the name of the "Holy Virgin and the Holy Seal," at the peril of his life, to send them $500. The letters bore the Madrid postmark and were signed with various names. They threatened to destroy his home and kill him and his three sons unless he paid the money.

The last letter arrived two weeks ago, and since then Guidaro has been in constant fear of violence. The explosion occurred about 11:45 o'clock last night. It aroused the neighbors who saw flame flash up and envelop the cottage. The home of James Borland, No. 482 Avenue 20, had plaster blown from the interior walls. The building was scorched by the flames, and the services of the fire department were needed to put out the fire.

The explosion occurred about 11:45 home will total $500. Guidaro places his loss at $1500, the building and $500 on the contents. The home of Mrs. Wesley Curtis at No. 440 Avenue 10, was damaged slightly.

Guidaro has a little shoe shop at No. 5815 Pasadena avenue. He works 10 hours a day, and his wife, Mrs. Joseph and James, sell papers, and are seldom at home before 9 o'clock.

According to Mrs. Wesley Curtis, who lives next door to Guidaro, she saw a man jump from the rear window of the cottage shortly before the explosion. He ran through the back yard, and was seen by the neighbors. The man is believed to have been the "Black Hand's" agent.

Trade Goes Ahead.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Legitimate commerce between the United States and the border towns of Mexico, now held by the insurgents, will not be interfered with by the United States, the duty of international law arising from the border situation was discussed by the Cabinet today and the general policy was laid down that there should be no interruption of trade which did not violate the neutrality of the United States.

Administration officials decline to discuss hypothetical questions relating to the exportation of arms and ammunition. United States collectors of customs along the border must pass upon the legality of all shipments. Col. Steever, in command at El Paso, was instructed by Secretary of War Dickenson to permit all shipments which pass through the customhouse at El Paso to enter Juarez.

COMMERCE GOES ON.

"Commercial" exportations and intercourse of whatever description between Juarez and El Paso, says the State Department's statement, "are not, in legal contemplation, essentially affected by the mere fact that Juarez is now in the actual possession of the insurgents instead of the Mexican Federal authorities. The same principles of course, apply in all places."

CROSSING STATE LINE DOESN'T CHANGE HIM.

Gov. Wilson of New Jersey, a Democratic Presidential Possibility, Comes to Los Angeles Firmly Opposed to Applying the Recall to Judges, Unlike a Political Tourist Who Preceded Him:

HON. WOODROW WILSON, New Jersey's Governor, Princeton University's former president, and the White House hope of Democracy, crossed the State line between Arizona and California yesterday on his way to Los Angeles without changing his mind. Wherein he differs from an illustrious political tourist who came to California two months ago on the same route. It shows a difference between radicals, at least.

For Gov. Wilson is a radical. He has admitted it repeatedly, and subscribes to all the Oregon, Arizona and California, fade except the judicial recall. He is an advocate of municipal commission government and of Canadian reciprocity, and as such entertains the idea that Democracy's hope may not be in vain. But he will not discuss whether he is a Presidential candidate or not.

But a Governor doesn't always travel with a skilled publicity man across the whole country at a time when politicians are making up their minds and make political speeches unless he has some faith in the promise of the future. So he entered California divested of practically all his present and past honors, and established in the public mind as a Presidential possibility.

The purpose of Wilson's visit is to speak before the City Club, but his coming has inspired activity by the Princeton Club, the Democratic and the New Jersey Society, and each will entertain him. After tonight's speech he will remain until tomorrow afternoon, when he will board the Yale for San Francisco. There he is to speak Tuesday night. The week he will speak in Portland and Seattle.

New Jersey's Governor Welcomed to Los Angeles.

Hon. Woodrow Wilson, probable Democratic candidate for President, is shaking hands with Mayor Alexander, in the upper picture, surrounded by Princeton Club members and city officials. In the lower picture Gov. Wilson is seen walking with his Princeton classmate, Lynn Helm, who carried his grip. Helm will give a dinner in the Governor's honor this evening. The distinguished guest will speak in the Auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

HALF-MILLION FOR HOTEL.

Building at Beverly Hills to Be One of Finest in the Country.

On a commanding eleven-acre site at Beverly Hills one of the finest tourist hotels in the United States will at once be started by Mrs. Margaret J. Anderson and Stanley S. Anderson, present managers of the Hotel Hollywood. Fully $500,000 will be expended on the construction of the building, which will be of the mission type, and fireproof. There will be more than 300 guest rooms.

The site, which is one of the most attractive in the beautiful Beverly Hills section, was bought from the Percy H. Clark Company, sales managers for that property. It fronts on Sunset boulevard, extending from Hartford way to Crescent drive, and overlooks the sea, Hollywood and Los Angeles.

Plans for the hotel are under preparation by Elmer Grey, who will also have charge of the landscaping of the grounds. The main dining-room will have a seating capacity of 500, and will be so situated as to command an outlook toward the heights and the ocean. There will also be a number of private dining-rooms.

Mrs. Anderson, the builder of this, the latest of the Southern's great hotels, has conducted the Hollywood Hotel since it was opened, about ten years ago.

GOV. WILSON'S PROGRAMME.

Gov. Wilson is to receive former and present New Jersey people at the Alexandria this morning from 9 to 10 o'clock under the auspices of the New Jersey Society. At noon he is to be entertained at luncheon in Pasadena by the Chamber of Commerce. At 6 o'clock he will be entertained at a dinner at the California Club by Lynn Helm, who graduated from Princeton with him in 1879. At 8 o'clock tonight the Governor will address the City Club at the Auditorium. Though he will remain in the city until Sunday evening, he will have no further appointments except a private luncheon with Dr. John Willis Bass, president of Occidental College.

reference and the recall are such processes. Our judiciary, in my judgment, should stand outside the pale of politics and that is where I would put it long before I would turn to the recall.

This declaration is a contrast with the contrary statements of Col. Roosevelt on the same question two months ago. On the Arizona constitution, Wilson recalls and all. On the California side he was met and converted to the other side—for California at least. Then he hurried to San Francisco and praised the passage of three laws that the Legislature had defeated the day before he arrived.

With a meteoric splash of adversity like that preceding him, Gov. Wilson has landed in the middle of California radicalism with more grace than Roosevelt did. If he does not fall down at San Francisco and Berkeley, as the African hunter did, he will get by all right, and Democracy's hope will remain effective.

Gov. Wilson deplores the presence of the judicial recall in the Arizona constitution, as Roosevelt did not. "But I would not refuse the State amendment to the United States because of it," said he. "Opinions differ. I expect respect for my own, and I respect those of others, as though I differ radically, as I do on this one question."

AS TO JUDGES: "I would make the process of selection of judges such that only men could gain such a position. This is the true way. The trouble comes when concrete cases are presented to the people. Unfaithful judges are discovered and there is no way to remove them except by impeachment. Immediate reform is urged. Now it is true that we may have unfaithful judges, but are they not so few that we can better afford to suffer them until political processes eliminate them than to inspire an effort to render popular rather than judicial decisions? To my mind it is far better to reform the method of choosing judges than to endanger their independence, as the recall of fear, will do."

As to all other offices Gov. Wilson favors the recall. He points out that the system of appointing all judges, in use in many States, is better than electing them. Since his incumbency in New Jersey he has appointed seven or eight judges and at no time has either a bar association or any other influence sought to direct the appointments, he says. The judges are appointed for a term and are removable only by impeachment and the Governor declares that "Justice" is synonymous with the trust administration of justice.

"I deem appointment far better than election," he declared, "unless the process of nomination and election is made so that the best men may be chosen. If they are not chosen it will be the fault of the people."

He is also an advocate of the commission form of government, and was instrumental in having this system extended by statute to thirty-two middle-class cities of his State. In his dealings with the Legislature he was radical and dominant much after the manner of Johnson in California, and by similar methods broke through radical legislation.

HIS TRIP MODIST. Gov. Wilson's first trip to California, although preceded by the hurried of President-making, was as modest almost, as that of a commercial traveler. His retinue consisted of one important secretary, Frank Porter Stockbridge, of New York, magazine writer and Wilson enthusiast, and McKee Barclay, of the Baltimore Sun, which has found a Democratic Moses and intends to specialize on his promise.

Each of the trio possessed one suit of clothing and necessary other articles of apparel to be well dressed. "I don't know what I'll do for a dress suit," said the Governor. "Every function is informal."

CONTRACT FOR BURBANK LINE.

AWARD MADE FOR GRADING INTERURBAN TROLLEY.

Time Limit Is Five Months and Attractive Territory Will Be Opened Up—The Property Owners Make Good on Proposition to Furnish Bonus and Right of Way.

The contract for the grading of the new interurban trolley line to Burbank was let yesterday to Robert Sherer & Co. It is to be completed within five months and will open up an attractive territory in the San Fernando Valley.

The line will branch from the present Glendale line at Arden avenue, just above the city of Glendale, and a short distance south of Casa Verdugo. It will cross Central avenue, Fountain street, Melrose street, Burbank avenue and Park avenue, which runs through Verdugo Park, thence across a large acreage of fertile territory, reaching the city limits of Burbank at Grandview avenue. The route through Burbank will be along Fourth street, terminating at Cypress avenue.

Before the consolidation of the Pacific Electric and the Los Angeles Pacific, the committee of citizens and property owners of Burbank called on H. E. Huntington and asked for the extension of the line, as through it the eastern end of the great San Fernando Valley could be opened. An offer was made to build it on condition that private right-of-way be furnished and a bonus of $40,000 subscribed to pay the expense of operation the line until it was on a profit-making basis.

It was substantially this agreement that was carried out by the interest that succeeded Huntington in the control of the traction lines. About three weeks ago the property owners interested made good on their side of the proposition. Then the Pacific Electric advertised for bids.

Twenty Dollars More. S. W. Patterson and E. Triolo were yesterday fined $10 each, respectively, by Justice Sumnerfield for speeding. The complaining witness was Officer Blaylock, who made the arrests on Wilshire boulevard.

THE story of the uncovering of a buried city in Mexico, in The Times Magazine to-morrow, will be of interest to others as well as to archaeologists.

The Surf-Maid

THE "Surf-Maid" is now Queen—so heralds the Summer. All eyes follow the slender, trim figure that breathes the surly chop of the surf with such ease and grace. And the wisecracks along the beach may surmise that she is clad in a Coulter "Swimsuit" bathing suit. And she probably is.

The Beach-Maid's

New Parasols

TOLD you yesterday of a number of the pretty parasols that I saw on display at Coulter's. But they were only a very few of the many, many delightful styles, shades and materials.

I saw a number that made me think of the beach maids, strolling along the boulevard or on the beach nestling close under the protecting shade of a dainty parasol. There were Dresden, Persians, linens, taffetas, gros-grain silks, pongees and many of them were topped off with the new "canopy"—a late addition that has proven very popular.

—And I noticed particularly the old-fashioned carriage shades, the kind that you can manipulate to protect you from the sun's rays. I hear that these are to be the fad for use in automobiles this summer. They came in plaids and ruffled-tucked styles in different materials lined with colored silks.

HEADFIRST INTO BED OF ROSES

FAMOUS CEREAL FOOD BABY FALLS FAR: LAUGHS.

"Washbush" Opens Its Friendly Arms to Catch Infant Who Plunges Out of Second-Story Window and Is Unhurt—Giggles Ecstasically When Taken to Hospital.

Pushing open with baby hands the shutters that barred the way to her playground, 2-year-old Adele Livingston, probably the best-known baby in the world, toddled across the sill of a second-story window at her papa's house, No. 1815 South Los Angeles street, yesterday morning and plunged headfirst twenty feet to the ground.

Nothing but the friendly arms of a spreading rose bush under the window saved the tot from instant death.
She lay squarely in the middle of a bushel basketful of red blossoms, bounced high in the air and caromed into another brambly bush, laughing delightfully the while. It was all a great joke to her and, disregarding the scratches on her bare, fat legs, she started to scramble out to greet the summons of her brother, Russell, to whom she called from the front yard and so precipitously responded.

stairs room as she went about her household duties, rushed out into the yard expecting to find that Adele had been instantly killed. Not even the gurgling chuckle with which the baby treated her was sufficient to soothe the mother's frantic fears. Convinced that the smiling infant had sustained internal injuries from her long fall, she bundled Adele into an automobile and rushed her to the Receiving Hospital.

Adele Livingston, known wherever magazines are published as the "cereal food baby," who narrowly escaped death yesterday when she fell twenty feet from an open window at her parents' home in Los Angeles. A washbush saved her life.

her and made ladies intimate love to everybody in sight.
When she was pronounced unhurt and the relieved mother gathered her up for the return home, Adele was heart-broken. The first tear that had fallen down her cheek all the time she had to go back in a street car carried of the hospital ambulance.
Adele and her brother, Russell, who is 3 years old, are the famous cereal food babies, whose faces are familiar to every one through the picture advertisements of different breakfast foods in the magazines. She has been photographed more frequently, considering her age, than any child now on the stage, and her pretty face is estimated to have sold school many tons of patent preparations to people who wish to look as happy and contented as she does.
The shutters are barred now, but open at that, Adele peeks longingly through their slats at "at washbush" and is momentarily contemplating another excursion through the air. If it will take her back to the hospital at that ambulance.

CREEPER'S CUT SHORT.

Enterprising Young Man, Accused of Burglary, Is Arrested and Held For Higher Court.
Fred A. Hughes, who was arrested several days ago by Police Detectives James and Ford, for burglarizing a number of hotel rooms and residences, was yesterday held to answer to the Superior Court by Police Frederick-son. Two charges of burglary have been filed against Hughes, and he was fixed at $1000 in each case.

In the arrest of Hughes, Detectives James and Ford effected the capture of the cleverest burglar that has operated in Los Angeles in months. Prior to coming here he had successfully operated in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.
Hughes had been arrested several hundred dollars worth of loot upon his person. In a trunk in his room the officers unearthed $500 worth of jewelry and silverware, which had been taken from the residence of Charles B. Ego, No. 4607 Wilton avenue. Other property was recovered that had been taken from guests at the Hotel Holmbeck, Natick and Hayward hotels.

NOT AS REPRESENTED.

Saloon-keeper, Who Bought Property on Word of Dealer, Wants Money and Security Back.
Complications in a land deal came to light in Justice Summerfield's court yesterday when Edward Sharkey, a saloon-keeper, brought suit against C. W. Stewart for the recovery of $1200 and a diamond ring.
Sharkey testified that Stewart had agreed to sell him twenty acres of land in Orange county for $800, saying that he could give a clear title in his own name. Sharkey paid a sum on account and gave the ring, valued at $300, to secure the debt.
Later, he declares, he found that Stewart did not own the land, and that it was mortgaged.

THE HEARING WAS CONTINUED UNTIL

Tuesday, in order that the County Clerk of Orange county might testify for the prosecution. Attorney Slossom appeared for Stewart, and Attorney Cruikshank and Deputy District Attorney Keyes conducted prosecution.

NEWSBOY IS INJURED.

Caught Between the Rails, He Sees Approaching Car Too Late to Save Himself—Leg Fractured.
Joseph Shapiro, a 13-year-old newsboy, of No. 1223 Girard street, was run down at Seventh and Hill streets yesterday afternoon by car No. 355, of the Georgia street line. His left leg was fractured.

SAYS HE'S BANKRUPT.

W. G. L. Tucker, an advertising man of this city, filed a petition of bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His liabilities are given at $1555.56, and his assets are scheduled as $65, of which $50 is wearing apparel and claimed to be exempt.

THERE WILL BE plenty of good fiction in The Times Magazine of January.

PUPILS' WORK EXHIBITION.

"From soup to nuts," will be made.
There will be a special tray, illustrating invalid cookery, and studies in dietetics will be exemplified in various menus. In connection with this work will be shown plans drawn by the girls, embodying their ideas of the kitchen ideal in its arrangement from considerations of convenience and sanitation. Potted meats, small fruits and vegetables, picked from the school gardens, and put up by the girls will also be shown.

In Domestic Art, everything for women will be on view, dainty embroidered dresses, lingerie, and a thousand things that women love, but no man knows the name thereof.
There will be a display of printing from those schools where that Trade is taught. A beautiful poster will be the feature of this exhibit.

A complete colonial mahogany dinner room set, table, chairs, sideboard, as well as bookcase and reading lamp pedestal, leather cushions, carved metal work, and a fine inlaid card table, will be the splendid display turned out by the pupils of the woodshops, and allied departments.

From the forge shops will be shown metal hammer, anvil, and a variety of machine parts, a gas engine, flywheels, various tools, and a fine display with samples of work.

PLASTIC ART.

The fine arts department will send from the grammar schools, many still life and landscape pictures, done in charcoal, in water colors and in oils, the landscape painting being executed by the children incidentally to being taught composition, and the ability to judge pictures.

From the High Schools will come work from life in charcoal and oil, drawn from a costumed model, also exhibits in water colors of flowers and still life.

A clay model exhibit will be shown, as also pen and ink work for illustrating. Pottery, too, will be shown, these articles being fired in the school-kilns.

The architectural departments will send displays of plans for houses, work in color and perspective, and work illustrating first-year in graphic statics, also designs for interior decoration.

A unique feature of the exhibit will be that of the jewelry work, illustrating the various articles of jewelry made and in many cases designed, by the pupils.

The teachers of agriculture in grammar and high schools are making every effort possible to make the cultural display the important feature in the exhibit.

"I believe that the study of agricultural in the grammar school offers the pupil a good opportunity for nature study, and a better understanding of the cultivation of the soil, the planting of the seeds and the caring of the plants to all highly educational. It delights the youngster to get into the garden and to see the plants grow. I believe that it will help them to become better citizens, and will teach them to take care of their own gardens, lawns, streets and vacant lots, and will give them a better idea of cleanliness and beauty, and will help them to learn to love nature."

A WOMAN'S PRAISE.

Mrs. George E. Larkey, who has charge of the work at Twentieth street, says:

"In my fifteen years' experience in handling children I have never seen anything that would hold their attention as does agriculture. The pupils look especially at the soil, especially for the climatic and soil conditions on the Pacific slope, and when they do not understand the reasoning that happens in their gardens, they go and look up the subject in the book. I believe this is the biggest project in the biggest State in the United States. The work starts in the kindergarten and is compulsory through school grammar school course just as arithmetic or language is. I deliver lectures on special subjects, the model soil, and show them that over irrigation injures the plants."

At the Seventh-street school they have the largest gardens in the city the students willingly work after school, and now they punish them by not permitting them to work in the garden for certain periods of time.

Here they have lawns planted, and trees set out, the pupils study pruning and budding and grafting. Next year they will have a large green house covering approximately 500 square feet.

When the vegetables mature, children take them home for family use, and the mothers are also anxious to transplant vegetables to their own gardens at home.

These school gardens are having a great influence over the people in the neighborhood, the property owners are getting the fever and are cleaning up dirty back yards and planting lawns and gardens instead of harboring rubbish heaps.

On May 31st the low prices at which applications are now being accepted for the new Encyclopaedia Britannica will be withdrawn.

Intending subscribers are advised that after May 31st work will only be attainable at an increase of $10 or more.

The remarkable success of the New Edition of this celebrated work has anticipations. Thus far sales of the New Edition (21,753 sets by May 4) have corded to a number exceeding the ability of the manufacturing department to work. Earnest efforts to expedite delivery are, however, being made, but in view magnitude of the printing and binding, involving the largest manufacturing concern history of the publishing, it has been necessary to open a waiting list, each given an individual number. Delivery will then be made in the order in which have been registered and as rapidly as printers and binders can turn out the volumes.

The advantage of subscribing now is therefore twofold—to enjoy the benefit of ing in cost by having your name entered on the subscription list before the low prices

DEFERRED DELIVERY

Subscribers who for one reason or another may prefer to take delivery of their next fall or at the end of the year may do so, and their payments need not begin until has been made. It is advisable, however, in their case, that their application shall be tered during the present month; that is, before the closing of the period for making ap-tation at the lowest prices.

General Knowledge and Special Knowledge
The function of the Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica now in course of issue by the press of the University of Cambridge is to enable a reader to learn, quickly, as much about any subject as anyone, except a need know.

If his need, at the moment, is for a general view of any branch of knowledge, he will clear and comprehensive outlines under the heading to which he will instinctively turn.

If his need is for particulars about a definite place, a machine, a substance, a man or a theory, he will find the details he desires in a concise article that deals with one item of information only.

The amount of service the volumes can render is limited only by the extent of the er's recognition of the usefulness of knowledge and his ability to assimilate it.

The limit of the time he can spare does not determine the value of that service, for single fact, acquired by glancing at one page, may be of inestimable importance.

The Responsibility of a University

THE passing of the copyrights of the Encyclopaedia Britannica into the keeping of an ancient institution devoted to learning will give this famous work, for the first time in its long history, the character of a public enterprise rather than that of a private undertaking on the part of one publisher after another. In coming now under the control of the University of Cambridge (England) the Encyclopaedia Britannica, as a most comprehensive exposition of exact knowledge, will be regarded as having found a natural abiding place. On its side, in assuming the charge of a most powerful instrument of general instruction, the University takes a step in fulfillment of its responsibility towards a wider circle than that of its students.

A Reservoir of Knowledge

THE new Encyclopaedia Britannica is one of the most valuable and original of modern achievements. The sum of human energy devoted to one purpose, the co-operation in the task of many of the foremost men in various parts of the world, and the incalculable usefulness of the result, combine to make the production of the work an event of the greatest international importance.

The dissemination of knowledge resembles the irrigation of a desert in that the creation of a vast reservoir, with an adequate system of ramifying channels, is exceedingly difficult. The lecture rooms of a university and the laboratories of an institution of research are fountain-heads inaccessible to all but a small minority; and although that minority includes students who will in turn become teachers, it is not possible that in every part of the English-speaking world education of more than the most rudimentary kind should be available to all who have the intelligence to assimilate it. Furthermore, the university and the laboratory are not the only sources of knowledge. Every great engineering, manufacturing and commercial enterprise succeeds by the application of novel methods developed by the practical experts who apply them.

The only reservoir into which the essence of all kinds of knowledge can be gathered, and by which unimpeded distribution can be assured, is a great library of reference. And the new Encyclopaedia Britannica is the first library of reference upon the broadest lines that has been planned in any country during a long and fruitful period which has seen surprising changes in every department of endeavor.

New India Paper Format

As further extending its usefulness as an instrument of popular culture, the editors of the 11th Edition consider that the innovation of India paper logically completes on the material side of refining process by which an aggregate of knowledge estimated to be twice as great as that contained in the 9th Edition has been brought within the covers of 28 volumes, each but one inch thick.

Revolutionary in Progress

In trying to estimate the value is to totally distinct conception from its value which is immeasurable—of the new 11th one labors under the fundamental difficulties that there exists no book which covers the field and to which it can be adequately referred. Taking, however, the 9th Edition as a basis, and comparing the price, $750 a volume, with that of the new edition, $400 a volume, it will be seen that the new edition is a natural and wholesome way. The force of the with all its improvements in information arrangement, must clearly be cheap at its price of $400 a volume.

Another line of thought leading to a comparative estimate is afforded by the value of the writings of the experts who the articles. Judged by the amount of information they contain, the 29 volumes of the 11th Edition are equivalent to three or four volumes of the length to which technical usually run. The reader will therefore perceive that any computation of the value of the 11th Edition would make the price the price which the publishers are, at the present time, asking for it.

Still a last estimate—and perhaps the most convincing—is possible. If there were copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in every home, the advantage its possession would be almost priceless. Is this advantage any way lessened, is its money equivalent respect depreciated by the fact that the ness of the work to mankind has been increased thousands of times by bringing it means of everyone to buy?

An Occasion for Prominent Decision

The 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia comprises 28 quarto volumes, each containing 960 to 1,060 pages, and an index containing 500,000 references.

The 40,000 articles into which its contents divided aggregate 40,000,000 words, and authority of the text is confirmed by 1,000 illustrations, 450 full page plates, and 1,000 The reader will do well to note that the desirous of obtaining the work at the possible date and on the most favorable he is requested to forward his inquiry attached blank without delay. The price previous to publication" concession will be withdrawn on May 31st, after which the

OAKS MURDER TWO PITCHERS.

Give Schafer and Klein a Big League Beating.

Eleven Runs Made Off These Two Flingers.

Kilroy Goose Eggs Angels in One-Sided Game.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Oakland, 12: Los Angeles, 0. What's the use of even reading about big league games in the East when we have them right here every day at Washington Park? Of course, if any one is crazy to see a lot of players who get big easy money for playing real rotten ball, you will have to go East but if you want to see a daily major league brand just stay here.

The Angels and the Oaks gave an exhibition of one kind yesterday, and the only reason it was not worse than it happened to be, was because the Oaks tired themselves out in the second and third innings, during which they made eleven runs and eleven hits. After that they were all in and when old George Wheeler went in to pitch in the fifth inning he did not have much trouble holding them down. They were done for.

All this time Kilroy plugged along as if he was heading for the championship. Bush Davis, once of Vernon, was the only man to get to second base and he did it twice, once in the first on his single and Moore's out at first and again in the third on his single and steal. He made two of the four hits picked up by the locals off Kilroy and if he could have been helped, might have made a run. To back up the right kind of pitching the Oaks played a beautiful fielding game and the only bumble they had was when Catcher Pearce muffed Moore's foul fly in the last of the third inning. This did no damage for on the next pitched ball Moore flew to left. The local showed a remarkable case of helplessness all the way and were sewed up in a hole from beginning to end.

HOOKS FOR SCHAFFER. Schafer started out all right and got through the first inning without much effort, but in the second when he began to curve over the Oaks proceeded to demonstrate how to put the hooks into almost every ball pitched. Zacher flew out to Howard in left, who muffed the ball, but Zacher was out a moment later stealing second. Hitting his left arm and shoulder, he was forced at second by Ware. Ware stole second. Pearce hit to left and would have been out at the plate if Howard's throw but Ware knocked the ball from Grindle's hands in scoring. Pearce ran to second on the throw in, to third on the error and scored on a well-placed Kilroy. Ware passed, scored on Fry's triple to center and Fry scored on Coy's infield single.

Dillon thought this was about enough and yanked Schafer out to give Klein a chance. It was better for him than it was for the Oaks. Maggett opened up on Klein with a hit to right and Cutshaw bunted sacrifice fly to left. Hastings hit to first and both runners were safe. Both advanced a base on Zacher's sacrifice fly to left. Hastings hit to left, scoring Maggett and Cutshaw; ran to second on the throw-in of the ball and was safe at third on Ware's bounce to Kilroy, who tried to catch. Het at third.

Pearce, Kilroy and Fry followed this business with singles and Coy made the second out as first on an out-pounce to Klein. After this Maggett and Cutshaw bunted safely to third base. All this mess of errors and things made seven more runs and a lot of fans started to thinking when they could catch the next car home.

This was not a beating. It was a case of maddening. The Oaks stayed in one more inning just to show 'em that he didn't care. Wheeler began in the fifth to pitch and Fry's single, steal and Moore's.

Everyone Satisfied.

SEALS TRADE OUTFIELDER LEWIS FOR SENATOR PITCHER ZAMLOCK.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Jimmy Lewis, outfielder with the San Francisco club for several years, has been traded to Sacramento by Manager Long for Carl Zamlock, the Cogswell High School pitcher, who has been with the Senators this spring. The deal was completed late in the afternoon and tonight Long announced the change.

According to reports, it was an even trade. The San Francisco club long on outfielders, has been in bad shape so far as pitchers are concerned. Zamlock attracted Long's attention when he pitched during the last series and there was trouble reaching an agreement with Charlie Graham.

"I need a pitcher and Graham needs an outfielder for the Senators," said Long, in explaining the deal.

One Lucky Man.

AUTEN BOWLS FIRST PERFECT SCORE ON LOS ANGELES ALLEYS.

TO FRANK AUTEN, a member of the Los Angeles Limited bowling team of the Southern California Bowling League, falls the honor of being the first individual to roll a perfect score of 300 in Los Angeles.

This feat was performed on the Cosmopolitan alleys Thursday afternoon in a three-cornered match game between himself, George Bunn and "Bun" Lustig. With the exception of a single instance, every ball was a perfect hit, and he justly earned the credit of attaining the one score for which every bowler strives.

When one stops to consider the thousands of bowlers who have indulged in this sport in Los Angeles during the past fifteen years, Auten's performance is all the more remarkable. Many bowlers have come within one or two strikes of this coveted goal, but the intense interest of en-thus of Coy's flow to center scored the final run for the Oaks. Aside from three fast double plays the only fielding error in the game was Ware's fine running catch of Metzger's short fly to left. Ware ran with the ball and caught it over his left shoulder. Hoffman replaced Maggett in the third. The score:

DOROTHY CAMPBELL BEATEN.

LONDON, May 12.—Mrs. Ross, who on three occasions held the British golf championship, today defeated Miss Dorothy Campbell, the American and Canadian champion, on the links of the royal Bert Rush Golf Club in Ireland. The round ended even and on playing the nineteenth Mrs. Ross made the hole in four splendid strokes.
Miss Campbell, who won the American championship two years in succession, also is a former holder of both the British and Scottish titles.

BORDER RACE TRACK.

BUFFALO N. Y., May 12.—Another border race track will be added to the Canadian circuit within a year, according to an announcement made here by William Murray, the well-known starter, who has been appointed general manager by the backers of the new venture. A half-mile track will be located at Niagara Falls, Ont., within an hour of Buffalo and Hamilton, Ont.

"RED" PRIEPKE DEAD.

UTICA (N. Y.), May 12.—Herman "Red" Priepke of La Porte, Ind., the second baseman sold by the Boston Americans to the Utica club, died here tonight. Priepke accompanied the Boston team on its trans-continental trip and at Oakland took a severe cold.
He never left him. Recently pleuro-pneumonia developed and caused his death. He was 31 years old.

SAYLOR AND SHERIDAN.

ST. JOSEPH (Mo.), May 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Though outpointed by Young Saylor of Indianapolis in a slashing fifteen-round bout here tonight, Mickey Sheridan of Chicago, the former jockey, got and earned a draw by his ability to take punishment and his willingness to fight. The decision was a good one because Sheridan forced the mill all the way. The ladies did not stall a bit in the whole fifteen rounds.

JEM KENDRICK WINS.

NEW YORK, May 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jem Kendrick of England, a self-styled bantam but heavy enough for a featherweight, managed to outpoint Young Wagner by a trifle in a ten-round boxing exhibition at the National Sporting Club tonight.
Wagner, finished strong but could not overcome the Englishman's early lead.

M'FARLAND WINS.

BUFFALO (N. Y.), May 12.—Packer McFarland of Chicago, outpointed and outfought Tommy Kilbane of Cleveland in a ten-round bout tonight, before the Buffalo Athletic Association here tonight. Kilbane was weak and clinching at every opportunity to save himself at the close of the tenth round.
